Series Description

A will is the legal document by which an individual determines the disposition of their property following their death. To be authenticated and take effect, wills must be filed with and proven in court. The legal procedures followed in doing this is known as probate. In addition to expressing the wishes of individuals regarding the settlement of their estate following their death, a will often includes the names of a spouse, children, or other heirs and descriptions of real and personal property. In this series, wills that have been copied into bound volumes are found into Will Books (sub-series A.1). These are generally in chronological order, and there are indices in each volume. Loose wills (sub-series A.2) are filed in boxes and folders and arranged alphabetically by the surname of the individual whose will it is. Wills are permanent records.

Series A: Wills is arranged into two sub-series:

Sub-series A.1: Will Books, 1779-1959 (page 2)

Sub-series A.2: Wills (loose), 1773-1992 (page 3-170)
