571.5 linear feet (195 boxes and 731 volumes, includes unprocessed)

HISTORICAL NOTE

In November 1777, the North Carolina General Assembly authorized the establishment of Washington County, the first county in its territory west of the Appalachian Mountains. Its initial boundaries stretched from the mountain ridges in the east to the Mississippi River in the west (basically the boundaries of present-day Tennessee.) The Court of Pleas and Quarter Sessions (County Court) was the first government body to operate in the county. This court held both civil administrative and judicial authority. The first meeting of this court was on February 23, 1778 at the Sinking Creek home of Charles Robertson, one of the early leaders of the Watauga Association. The first members of the court were James Robertson, Valentine Sevier, John Sevier, Robert Lucas, John Shelby, Jr., William Bean, James McNabb, William Clark, Benjamin Gist, Joseph Wilson, James Stuart, Richard White, Charles Robertson, Thomas Price, John Carter, Jacob Womack, Andrew Greer, George Russell, Zachariah Isbell, Thomas Houghton, John McMahon, John Chism, William Cobb, Michael Woods, Benjamin Wilson, William McNabb, and Jesse Walton.

At that first meeting, court members appointed John Sevier to serve as the first county clerk. Until Jonesborough was established the following year as the county seat and first town in what became Tennessee, County Court continued to meet in member's homes. The first session held at the new courthouse in Jonesborough was on May 24, 1779.

Being the first county office, the County Clerk's office, originally called the County Court Clerk, became a repository for a wide variety of public records over the years. Today this is an elected office with terms of office of four years. The following have served as County Clerk for Washington County:

John Sevier (1778-1785); James Sevier (1785-1788, for State of Franklin government); John Tipton (1787, for North Carolina government); Thomas Gourley (1787-1790, for North Carolina government); James Sevier (1790-1823); Matthew Stephenson (1823-1824); James Sevier (1824-1836); Samuel Greer (1836-1844); William H. Smith (1844-1856); Henry Hoss (1856-1860); Joseph A. Conley (1860-1866); John F. Grisham (1866-1878); Elbert A. Shipley (1878-1886); Jacob Leab (1886-1898); Charles S. Mason (1898-1910); W. C. Leab (1910-1922); Jess G. Smith (1922-1930); Earl Sell (1930-1938); John C. Smith (1938-1946); Thomas Boring (1946-1954); Marion Carr (1954-1970); Roy Phillips (1970- 1994); Doyle Cloyd (1994-2010); Kathy Storey (2010-2022); and Cheryl Storey (2023 – present).

SCOPE AND CONTENT

As the first and original county in Tennessee, Washington County has the oldest public records in the state. Some records go back to the English colonial period, the period of the Watauga Association, and the state of Franklin. The office of county court clerk (now County Clerk) was the original repository for most county records in the early years, which explains why so many varied records appear in its holdings. Among the primary records found in this office are marriage records, early tax lists, bonds and oaths, education records, election records, license records for businesses and professionals, county court and other judicial records involving the justices of the peace, among many others. One important duty of the clerk from the very beginning is keeping the minutes of the County Court meetings.

Note: Some records found in this record group were transferred to East Tennessee State University for preservation in 1958. Beginning in the late 1970s, the Archives of Appalachia there processed some of these records. In August 2016, the records were returned to the Washington County Archives. Some boxes and folders may still be labeled "W.C.C.R." (Washington County Court Records) or acc. 18 (accession collection number). Any boxes or volumes part of this processing at ETSU are cross-referenced in the "Note" column of this guide in case a researcher needs to make a connection to records used when housed at the Archives of Appalachia. This will be indicated in the note field by "A of A" and the specific box or volume number assigned by that archive at the time of processing. Materials may no longer be in the order found at the Archives of Appalachia.

Researchers seeking records for years later than those found in this guide and held by the archives should contact the office of County Clerk at the courthouse at 100 East Main Street in downtown Jonesborough.

49 linear feet (60 volumes, 2 boxes and 2 notebooks)

Series Description

One important duty of the clerk from the very beginning of the county has been to keep the minutes of the County Court meetings. These minutes are probably the single most important source of county records for documenting the history of county government and in telling the history of Washington County from a governmental perspective. The minutes cover a wide array of topics. Depending on the period in question, this included the appointment of other county officials, setting taxes for county residents and business enterprises, authorizing various activities (operating an inn, tavern, or mill, etc.), establishing fees for conducting business, laying out of county roads, proving deeds, admitting attorneys to the bar, etc. From the earliest days to modern times, the members of the court (known as justices of the peace or magistrates) also acted as a judicial court and heard cases, probated wills, settled estates, provided for widow's dowers, and handled the welfare of orphans and the poor, among much else. Because the years covered by the minutes stretch from the 18th century to modern times, they reflect the many historical events happening at the time, including the American Revolution, the struggle to establish the state of Franklin, slavery, the Civil War, the world wars of the 20th century, and the Great Depression, among much else in the last 200 plus years of history. Volumes in the series are arranged chronologically. Most volumes contain indexes, though often these are only rudimentary in nature. This is a permanent record.

Note: The minutes of the Court of Pleas and Quarter Sessions (County Court) from 1778 – November 1968 have been microfilmed by the Tennessee State Library and Archives in Nashville (TSLA microfilm reels MF#129-154).

Record Group 5, Series D: Education Records, 1798-1936
8.5 linear feet (15 boxes and 1 volume)

Series Description

One of the functions of county government is the support of education of its citizens. County Court played an important part in this through funding provided for schools and in the appointment of school officials to administer a county school system. The records in this series document these efforts. The majority of records are found in sub-series D.1, which document education efforts from its early beginnings into the middle of the 20th century. Records found in the County Court Education Files include attendance records, applications, reports, correspondence, contracts, census of scholastic population, minutes, receipts, and payment warrants. The records are arranged chronologically by decade. Sub-series D.2 documents the operations of a city school system in Jonesborough during the period in the late 19th and early 20th centuries.

Series D is arranged into the following sub-series:

Sub-series D.1: County Court Education Files, 1798-1936
 Sub-series D.2: Jonesboro Educational Society, 1885-1923

Sub-series D.1: County Court Education Files, 1798 - 1936

Sub-series Description

Records in this sub-series were miscellaneous education records found in the County Court records located originally in the County Clerk's office. The records are arranged in alphabetical order by subject. These records document many aspects of education administration and school history during the 19th and 20th centuries in Washington County. Included are annual and other reports, school board minutes, financial records, school scholastic populations, information on schools in operation at specific periods of county history, names of school officials and teachers in these schools, election of school district commissioners, and much more.

Sub-series D.2: Jonesboro Educational Society, 1885-1923
1 linear foot (1 volume)

Sub-series Description

This volume documents the operations of a city school system in Jonesborough during the period in the late 19th and early 20th centuries when the town operated its own public school system separate from the county. When the town went out of the school business in the midst of the Great Depression, its system was incorporated into the county public school system and its records were turned over to the office of County Clerk. The Jonesboro Educational Society volume primarily contains the minutes of the school system's governing board.

Sub-series E.3: Miscellaneous Election Records, 1870-1917
2 linear feet (1 box)

Sub-series Description

This sub-series consists of certificates of election signed by Tennessee Governor James D. Porter for various individuals elected as justices of the peace in 1876 and 1878 for Washington County and a printed set of rules and regulations for the Judicial Primary Election of December 8, 1917. Certificates of election are arranged in alphabetical order by the name of the justice elected and by election date.

At the end of this series are six small booklets, titled, "Tennessee Pocket Manual," and later, "Tennessee Directory and Official Vote." Dated from 1902 through 1918, they list the names of Senators, Representatives, Railroad Commissioners, Congressmen, and in Presidential election years, they list the numbers of votes for each candidate by county.

Series F: Judicial Records, 1777-2002
165 linear feet (333 boxes and 114 volumes)

Series Description:

Records in this series document judicial activities and court actions taken by the County Court and individually by its members as justices of the peace. Many types of cases both civil and criminal are involved, including debt, estate settlements, bastardy, assault, battery, drunkenness, disorderly conduct, trespassing, traffic violations, malicious mischief, slander, larceny, among others. Documents include correspondence, dockets, petitions, judicial orders, summons, subpoenas, attachments, garnishments, execution orders, warrants, depositions, and other types of records. Sub-series F.3 is a collection of loose miscellaneous court documents that were once housed at Duke University's Special Collections department. For more on this group of records, see a more detailed description under the sub-series section later in this guide.

Note: Researchers will also find judicial actions taken by County Court in the minutes of the County Court (Series C).

Sub-series F.2.b: Bastardy Bonds, 1790-1891 and undated
.5 linear foot (1 box)

Bastardy bonds were created to protect the county from the expense of caring for an illegitimate child. If an unmarried woman was found to be pregnant, a warrant was issued and the woman brought before the Court of Pleas and Quarter Sessions, questioned under oath and asked to name the father of the child. If she refused, she was required to give bond with security to insure that the child would not become a ward of the county. If she named the father of the child, he was brought into court and required to give bond, also with security. This bond placed the burden of support for an illegitimate child upon the father should the mother become unable to provide proper support. The collection is organized by date and then chronologically.

Sub-series Description

County Court appointed a jury of view composed of selected members of the court to investigate generally two types of situations: 1) to determine if someone was insane or suffering mental illness, and 2) to determine the cause of sudden, unexplained deaths. In the latter event, the county coroner generally was involved as well. Deaths included those involving natural causes, accidents, suicide, and, in some cases, criminal causes. The inquests are arranged in chronological order by year. In the event, there was more than one inquest in a year, then the inquests are further arranged in alphabetical order by the surname of the individual being examined or whose death was being investigated.

Series G: Licenses, 1879-2005
69 linear feet (244 volumes)

Series Description

The series contains copies of licenses and permits required by law of various individuals and businesses to perform their professions, to conduct business, or for other reasons. Such licenses were purchased from the County Clerk and recorded in that office. Principal among these records are professional licenses (by health care providers and others), merchant licenses, licenses to sell and dispense alcoholic beverages, among others. Records are arranged into sub-series by license/permit type and then chronologically within that record type.

Series G is arranged into the following sub-series:

- Sub-series G.1: Auto Dealer Records, 1998-2005
- Sub-series G.2: Beverage Licenses/Permits, 1934-1949

Series H: Marriage Records, 1781-1990
87 linear feet (78 boxes and 68 volumes)

Series Description

Marriage records in Tennessee are permanent records documenting the legal civil union of a groom and bride. There are three types of marriage record books. Sub-series H.1 records bonds made prior to a marriage where the parties pledge to go through with the marriage, the bond being forfeited if they did not. Sub-series H.2 records the marriage license information after the license was issued and the marriage ceremony performed. The marriage record books (Sub-series H.3) are the most detailed record of a marriage. See sub-series description for details. Sub-series H.4 contains actual loose marriage licenses and bonds issued by the County Clerk between 1781 and 1950. Marriage volumes are arranged into sub-series and then chronologically. Loose marriage licenses are arranged chronologically with undated documents filed at the end of the sub-series.

Series H is arranged into the following sub-series:

- Sub-series H.1: Marriage Bond Books, 1886-1937
- Sub-series H.2: Marriage License Books, 1787-1990
- Sub-series H.3: Marriage Record Books, 1929-1972
- Sub-series H.4: Marriage Licenses and Bonds (loose), 1781-1950
 - Sub-sub-series H.4.A: Marriage Licenses and Bonds, 1781 – 1950
 - Sub-sub-series H.4.B: Marriage Licenses, 1951 -

Sub-series H.5: Marriage related Records (loose)

Sub-series H.1: Marriage Bond Books, 1886-1937
9 linear feet (19 volumes)

Sub-series Description

Bond books give the name of the person making the bond, the names of the couple to be married, the names of any bondsmen, and the date of the bond.

Series K: State of Franklin Records, 1784-1803, and undated
.5 linear foot (1 box)

Series Description

At the close of the American Revolution, the question arose about what to do with the country's western lands, including the land North Carolina claimed west of the Appalachian Mountains. This included present-day Washington County, then known as Washington County, North Carolina. In 1784, the North Carolina General Assembly approved granting this land to the national government, only to revoke their decision some months later. Feeling unsure what their legal status was and in need of a stable local government, part of the citizens of the region began a movement to create a separate state. The state was called Franklin. Its initial capital was in Jonesborough. Other citizens opposed this statehood movement and remained loyal to North Carolina. The result was a civil and political struggle in the region during the years 1785-1788. The statehood movement fell apart in the early part of 1788, following an armed siege at the John Tipton farm (in present-day in Johnson City) and the end of John Sevier's tenure as Franklin's governor. In 1790, the North Carolina General Assembly once again and finally ceded its western lands to the federal government. Congress, in turn, established a territorial government to administer the region known as the Territory South of the River Ohio (Southwest Territory). The first area to follow the statehood process set out in the United States Constitution eventually became the state of Tennessee and joined the Union in 1796.

During the Franklin era, there were at times two sets of county government in Washington County, one under the jurisdiction of the state of Franklin and a rival government under the jurisdiction of the state of North Carolina. Because of the resulting civil war that occurred in Washington County, attempts were frequently made to seize and destroy the public records created by the rival county offices. As a result, many records were lost and only scattered records have survived for research use. The term state of Franklin records used in this series then refers to records created by both sets of county government and other records created during the statehood attempt period (primarily 1784-1788), though not all documents were created by elements of the government of the state of Franklin either at the county or state level.

These records are filed chronologically.

Series Description

The series contains tax records found primarily from the period when County Court handled much of this jurisdiction in Washington County (from the county's beginnings in the late 1770s into the later part of the 19th century). Tax documents were generally filed with the county clerk on behalf of the County Court. Later tax records will be found in two other offices: Assessor of Property Records (Record Group 1) and Trustee Records (Record Group 19). While there have been many types of taxes paid over the years, the primary tax payments found in the early county tax records relate to poll taxes, land taxes, and taxes on personal property.

A poll tax was a tax paid by each adult free male in a household who was between the ages of 21 and fifty. There were some exemptions from the tax for ministers, men wounded in military service, or those with disabilities. During the antebellum period, slave owners also paid a poll tax on any slaves owned, sometimes referred to in the tax lists as a "black poll". All slaves (male and female) between the ages of twelve and fifty were subject of this tax. Poll tax was applied in Tennessee from its beginnings until outlawed by the 1953 revision of the state constitution. Land in Tennessee prior to 1834 was taxed at a uniform rate per acre regardless of the condition of the property. Beginning with 1834, the law changed to tax land according to its value (ad valorem).

Series L: Tax RecordsSub-series L.1. Tax Lists, 1778-1882 and undated*Sub-series Description

Originally, as part of North Carolina and continuing with the establishment of a Tennessee state government in 1796, the county was divided into specific political sub-divisions or districts. These districts were designated by the names of the captains in the county militia and known as Captain's Companies until 1836. The state constitution of 1834 replaced (beginning in 1836) the Captain's Companies with Civil Districts, in which the county was divided into specific numbered districts. Under either system, a person was designated by the County Court to collect the taxes in a specific district. Note that the compiler of the tax list (the tax collector) was not necessarily the captain of the company being enrolled. The tax-taker was appointed by the County Court and references to this can usually be found in the County Court minutes. The tax lists found in this sub-series were compiled by the collector and filed with County Court and maintained by the County Clerk. When finished, the tax collector, after deducting his fee, turned the remaining monies collected over to the county sheriff. The sheriff during this period also acted as the county's treasurer. The sheriff deducted his fee and forwarded the tax money to the state treasurer.

The tax lists vary from year to year as to the information provided, as this changed with changes in the law. Generally, the records list the individual's name, the number of white polls, the number of black polls, acreage owned, and the tax. For some years, additional information may include type and number of livestock (horses, cows, etc.); cash held; etc. Later years seem to record more specific kinds of information. Tax lists in this sub-series are arranged in date order, then alphabetically by the name of the Captain's Company. Undated tax lists are filed alphabetically by the name of the Captain's Company at the end of the sub-series. The tax lists are fairly extensive from 1778 into the mid-1820s with only scattered surviving lists thereafter.

As part of a Works Project Administration (WPA) project in 1935, typed and handwritten transcriptions of loose early tax lists were made and put in the volume found at the end of this sub-series. Mrs. McCown later compiled and published this work in the book Washington County, Tennessee Records (Johnson City, Tenn.: privately published, 1964). Please note that though the book was published as volume 1, this volume was the only one ever published.

Note: Sub-series L.6: Tax Lists dated between 1778 and 1799 have been scanned and are available on the archives website.

Series L: Tax Records
Sub-series L.2: Delinquent Tax Records, 1793-1883 and undated

Sub-series Description:

The delinquent lists records provide the name of the individual and the amount they owed in tax. Sometimes, but not always, the Captain's Company of which they were a part is also given. Surviving delinquent tax lists are not as comprehensive as the tax lists found in Sub-series L.1. Records earlier than the 1790s appear not to have survived and overall survive only in part for subsequent years. The records are arranged chronologically. Undated lists are filed at the end of the sub-series.

County Clerk (RG5)Series M: Vital Records (Births and Deaths), 1908-1912 and 1925-1939*76.5 linear feet (4 boxes, 7 volumes)*Series Description

The series consists of volumes recording births and deaths in Washington County between 1908 and 1939. Prior to 1908, Tennessee did not require the recording of birth and deaths in the state. There are gaps in the records between 1913 and 1925 because state law lapsed on requiring county clerks to keep this type of information. A law in 1925 renewed the keeping of these records at the county level. It did not extend after 1939 when records came to be kept at the state level only.

The birth records for 1908-1912 are arranged in order of the school district number (corresponding to civil district number). Information provided includes the name of the enumerator, name of the child, date of birth, sex of child, color of child, name of father, father's birthplace, father's occupation, name of mother, mother's birthplace, name of physician present at birth, name of midwife present at birth, date birth was recorded. Within each district listing, the names are not in alphabetical order. The death records of 1908-1912 are arranged in order of the school district number (corresponding to civil district number). Information provided includes name of deceased, date of death, sex of deceased, color of deceased, age at the time of death, marital status, cause of death, place of birth, occupation, name of physician last in attendance, name of justice of the peace or coroner holding inquest (if any held), date death was recorded.

Birth records for 1925-1938 are arranged alphabetically (though not in strict alphabetical order under the letter). Information provided includes name of child, sex, color, name of parents, child's place of birth, and child's date of birth. The death records for 1925-1939 give the name of deceased, age, color, sex, place of birth, place of death, date of death, and cause of death.

Reports of births for March 1933-February 1939 are monthly reports by the County Clerk to the state of births in the county. The reports are filed in reverse chronological order and by civil district. Information given includes name of child, sex, color, name of parents, place of birth, civil district number, and date of birth.

Reports of deaths for January 1928-November 1937 and reports of deaths for May 10, 1933-February 22, 1939 are monthly reports by the County Clerk to the state of deaths in the county. The reports are filed in reverse chronological order and by civil district. Information given includes name of deceased, age at the time of death, color, sex, birthplace, place of death, date of death, and cause of death.

Note: Vital records are permanent records.

Series M: Vital Records (Births and Deaths), 1908-1912 and 1925-1939Sub-series M.1: Vital Records, loose papers*3 boxes, 1.5 linear feet*Sub-series Description:

The county was never tasked with the management of loose vital records, however a few of these documents found their way into the county's records. This series contains only one death certificate and three delayed birth records. The dates listed for the four items are the dates that the certificate was created. These records are filed chronologically, then alphabetically.

Series M: Vital Records (Births and Deaths), 1908-1912 and 1925-1939

Sub-series M.2: Vital Records, volumes

7 volumes, 3.5 linear feet

Sub-series Description:

The county kept registers of births and deaths whenever the law required. The laws changed sporadically, though, and there is not a complete sequential set of volumes. They are sorted chronologically, then alphabetically.

Series N: Watauga Association Records, 1771-1777 and undated
2 linear feet (1 box and 1 volume)

Series Description

Early European settlement of the Tennessee region began in the late 1760s and early 1770s with residences being established in and around Washington County (though the county did not then exist as a political unit). These settlements were a great distance from any organized government. As more settlers moved into the area, there was a growing awareness for a need for some form of local government west of the Appalachian Mountains. In 1772 settlers came together to draw up articles of governance to live under and formed what came to be known as the Watauga Association. The articles of governance they produced were later called by Theodore Roosevelt the first “ever adopted...by a community of American-born freemen.” No copy of these articles has been found.

The association operated only a few years and most records they may have produced have been lost to history. Many of the same figures that formed the association, in 1776, petitioned the North Carolina General Assembly to provide them with a more formal local government. With the onset of the American Revolution, this was especially important. For more on the Watauga Association, see John Haywood, The Civil and Political History of the State of Tennessee (Knoxville: Tenase Company, 1969 reprint); J.G.M. Ramsey, The Annals of Tennessee (Johnson City, Tenn.: Overmountain Press, 1999 reprint); and Samuel Cole Williams, Dawn of Tennessee Valley and Tennessee History (Johnson City, Tenn.: Watauga Press, 1937).

Few records survive for the period of the Watauga Association. The association had no courthouse or office for housing records. What records that were created would have been kept in the homes of individuals and easily lost over time. This series contains a 1771 promissory note between Mathew Talbott and Frances Donlany believed to be Washington County’s oldest surviving record. This document probably predates the establishment of the Watauga Association, dating to a period when there was no real government in the region. Also in the series is a judgement against James Arendale, two promissory notes (between William Bean and George Lumkins and between Gabriel and Jacob Brown), and Deed Book A (Part 1). William Bean, generally regarded as the first permanent white settler in Tennessee, settled in the Boones Creek area of Washington County about 1769.

Deed Book A (Part 1), sometimes called the “Wataugah Purchase Book”, is a copy of the ledger book in which Charles Robertson, as trustee for the association, recorded deeds for land in upper East Tennessee that was purchased by settlers following the signing of an indenture agreement with the chiefs of the Cherokee held at Sycamore Shoals ceding the land on March 19, 1775. Most property in the region trace back ultimately to this document. The book includes the indenture agreement with the Cherokee; a second indenture made between the Cherokee and Jacob Brown on behalf of settlers in the southern part of Washington County dated March 25, 1775; and copies of land grant entries entered later after the Robertson ledger was taken to the courthouse at Jonesborough, where early deeds were also entered into it up to the year 1782. There is a typescript at the front of the volume produced by Mary Hardin McCown (dated 1975) giving a brief history of the purchase, a typed transcription of the agreement, and an index to the volume. Old Deed Book A is a permanent record.

Note: Deed Book A (Part 1) is actually a part of Record Group 15: Register of Deeds Records, and is physically stored as part of that record group.

The documents in this series are arranged chronologically.

Sub-series O.11: Civil Works Administration Records
1933 - 1934
1 linear foot (2 boxes)

Sub-series Description

The Civil Works Administration was a short-lived job creation program established in 1933 during the depths of the Great Depression. The jobs were mostly manual-labor work for unemployed workers, and it was only a temporary project during the hard winter of 1933-1934. It was launched in November 1933 and ended on March 31, 1934. The focus in Washington County was on road and bridge work primarily, though there was a sewing project component as well. Records consist primarily of expense cards filed by the supervisors of the various projects. These expense cards are arranged by project number and then by month and year. No cards are available for projects 1-2, 6, and 10.

Sub-series O.12: Correspondence, 1808 – 1932 and undated
.5 linear feet (1 box)

Sub-series Description

The sub-series consists of correspondence between various individuals related to a variety of subjects. Many of these letters could be exhibits in court cases. However, specific cases could not be identified from the content of the correspondence, as well as the fact had become separated from their original and relevant locations. The letters are arranged in chronological order by year and then alphabetically by surname in cases where a year contained more than one letter. The note field indicates topics discussed in some of the correspondence.

Series O: Miscellaneous Records

Sub-series O.20: Indentures and apprenticeships, 1782 – 1859 and undated

.5 linear foot (1 box)

Sub-series Description

The sub-series consists of various indentures and apprenticeship records filed by individuals seeking the approval of the County Court. In most cases, these records will also be mentioned in the County Court minute books when the court met and took action on the requests. Indentures were written agreements or contracts made by two or more individuals for a particular purpose. An apprenticeship was an indenture or agreement whereby an individual (usually a minor) bound themselves to serve or train under another individual, usually for the purpose of learning a trade or practical skill. Records in this sub-series are arranged in chronological order by year and then alphabetically by the name the individual being bound as an apprentice or servant.

Series O: Miscellaneous Records

Sub-series O.37: Works Progress Administration (WPA) Records, 1935 - 2013

1.5 linear foot (½ box, 2 volumes)

Sub-series Description

In the summer and fall of 1935, a group of Works Progress Administration (WPA) workers under the supervision of Mary Hardin McCown of Johnson City organized and inventoried the older county records (especially loose papers) stored in the basement of the County Clerk's office. Part of their work involved the typed transcription of some of the earliest and most interesting of the documents found. At the conclusion of the project, these transcriptions and other information regarding the county records and their work was placed in a large ledger book. Sub-series O.9 consists of this notebook. Among the records transcribed were abstracts of petitions, records concerning iron works, Revolutionary War papers, State of Franklin papers, abstracts of land grants, widows' dowers, road petitions, and a master index of inventories and settlements of estates (1779-1900), among other items.

Another volume of typed and handwritten transcriptions of early tax lists was also produced as part of the project. This volume is found in Series L: Tax Records.

A detailed report of what the WPA project accomplished is found in the front of the Index of Estates, 1778 – 1900, Washington County, which is located in RG 4, Clerk and Master Records. The WPA workers in addition to Mrs. McCown were Pauline Rogers, Vera Shell, Manilla Byrd, Laura Dickerson, Martha Hine, Ophelia Koonce, Mavis Kelly, Mildred Murray, Minnie F. Ruble, Nell L. McCrary, Harry Douglas, B. F. Purcell, and Camille N. Swan.

Note: The notebook was microfilmed by the Tennessee State Library and Archives (TSLA MF#128).
